Arthème as a projectionist

Director: Ernest Servaes, France, 1913, silent/black&white, 7 minutes

Arthème responds on an ad in the newspaper in which an projectionist is wanted. By bluffing a bit he gets the job, but during work many things go wrong. This slapstick shows the work of a projectionist during early film and clearly shows the pianist in the room.

De Jantjes (fragment)

Director: Jaap Speijer, the Netherlands, 1934, sound/black&white, 2.5 minutes (clip)

Three men return to Amsterdam after years of serving in Dutch East Indies. It starts with a party, but soon problems come up. This film is one of the first sound films in the Netherlands and was a big hit. The film is now part of the canon of Dutch film.

Reve a la lune

Director: Gaston Velle, France, 1905, silent/tinting, 4 minutes

This film shows the nightly adventure (with many tricks) of a man who had too much to drink.

Het geheim van Delft (fragment) : The secret of Delft

Director: Maurits Binger, the Netherlands, 1917, silent/black&white, 3 minutes (clip)

A film about an alleged murder and an impossible love in which actress Annie Bos actually hangs from the sails of a windmill. Henny Vrienten added music to this silent film.

Les six soeurs Dainef

Director: unknown, France, 1902, silent/hand-coloured, 3 minutes

A film in which six women perform acrobatic tricks. Some of the acts look unrealistic.

Alice's Wild West show

Director: Walt Disney, VS, 1924, silent/black&white, 12 minutes

A girl named Alice and a couple of friends put on a performance, that gets disturbed by annoying neighbourhood kids. Her friends will not play anymore so Alice tells an exciting story by herself. While she is telling her story, the film turns into an animation film with Alice as the main character.
